About our Courses

The Northern Guild's professional training carries a reputation for excellence and as such is highly regarded. We specialise in training for a new career that targets Accreditation and Registration with the relevant professional bodies on qualification. Our courses are designed to meet a range of vocational needs.

We provide structured in-depth training modules that couple vocational learning with academic rigour and clinical skills, taught in a supportive environment that facilitates personal and professional development. Graduates are equipped and appropriately qualified to embark on a career path in the field of psychological therapies to work at the highest level appropriate to the qualification.

The curriculum is regularly updated to keep pace with developments in the field. The latest research findings – in areas such as neuroscience, emotions and behaviour, child development and human interaction – are integrated into the taught material so that you can be assured of current and informed training, at the cutting edge of the integration of the humanities, art and science.

The teaching and supervision of clinical skills and clinical practice is based on well-evidenced best practice and Northern Guild therapists and supervisors are experienced in a diverse range of fields and therapeutic modalities. We also offer a wide range of short courses and workshops that can be used to widen your skills base, for personal development and to meet the requirements of continuing professional development (CPD).

When you choose to train at the Northern Guild you can expect to embark on not just a rigorous professional training but also on a profound personal journey of self-discovery.

About our Courses

Training Routes

Here at the Northern Guild we offer flexible training to ensure that you are able to gain the necessary professional qualifications and skills needed to work as a fully registered counsellor or psychotherapist in your chosen field of application.

There are a number of possible pathways to professional registration and you can discuss the various options with us if you need further information.

Each course that we offer runs with some flexibility and there is room for building on your own interests or previous learning and experience. Most of our Diploma courses lead to professional registration, once the course has been successfully completed and all professional requirements met.

The two main routes are Counselling and Psychotherapy, which can be taken separately, or combined by Dual Registering.

Once you have successfully completed your training and are a practicing counsellor or psychotherapist, the learning doesn't just stop there. As well as meeting on-going Professional Development requirements, you may wish to expand your skill base and qualifications further. With all the courses and Continuing Professional Development (CPD) opportunities we offer at the Northern Guild, you will normally be able to find something to challenge and interest you.

More than a training course

We also have a stimulating social aspect within Northern Guild, not just for students but also for colleagues and friends of Northern Guild. From a regular book club to an annual end of term graduation followed by summer party. Events are constantly being updated, so check the website for details or contact us to be added to the mailing list.

Aims of training

The aims of our training are:

- To provide quality in-depth training leading to professional registration
- To train to a standard that equips you to work competently as a fully qualified professional
- To facilitate personal and professional development
- To offer arts based creative methods training
- To develop an understanding of research and cutting edge theory
- To provide community based learning in a friendly supportive environment
- To develop opportunities to specialise in a range of areas of work

Career satisfaction and the desire to help others are often quoted as the key reasons why individuals choose to train as a counsellor or psychotherapist. It is important to us that our aims are aligned to meetings these objectives.

About our Courses

Entry Requirements

There are no specific academic entry requirements for our Counselling Diploma courses. Those who enter our training have a desire for personal development and an aim to help improve the lives of others.

To be well-suited for our training you should have:

- Suitable personal qualities evidenced by written references and a genuine interest in working with people
- A personal value system in keeping with the philosophy of the training, including an open attitude towards all people
- Personal and emotional resilience, the ability to respond to and cope with challenges
- Ability to self-reflect and respond to personal challenge
- Ability to be flexible, responsive and non-defensive
- An ability to study at a higher educational level. This may take the form of a vocational or academic qualification in a related field, and/or equivalent life and work experience
- A willingness to undergo an enhanced DBS check and any other statutory checks required by your placement providers

In addition to the above, there are more specific entry requirements for the Diploma in Psychotherapy as follows:

- Graduate level competence. This may take the form of a relevant degree or equivalent vocational qualification in a related field, and/or equivalent life and work experience
- Some understanding of therapeutic work
- Relevant experience of working with people and a genuine interest in working with them

The entry requirements for our MSc training route are detailed in the “MSc Programme” section of this Prospectus.

For all courses, evidence of English language competence is required (e.g. IELTS level 6.5 with a minimum of 6.00 in each subtest).

We have a policy of flexibility and will be pleased to discuss with candidates how they can meet our entry requirements. Northern Guild has an equality and diversity policy available on request.

Foundation Course: Counselling and Psychotherapy

The first year of all of our training courses is the Foundation Year. However, we also offer a one-year Foundation course which is very similar to the Foundation Year.

This training course enables you to familiarise yourself with the theory and practice of counselling and psychotherapy. It also enables you to make an informed choice about which route and course of training is the best fit to meet your needs and chosen career pathway. The Foundation Course does not require that you begin a supervised clinical placement. The syllabus does specify that you need to complete 35 hours of training therapy during the year.

Successful completion of this course results in the award of the Foundation Certificate in Counselling and the offer of a place, to suitable candidates, onto year 2 of the full professional training route.

About our Courses

Recognition of prior learning (RPL)

We welcome candidates who have undertaken training elsewhere or who are already practicing as a non-accredited counsellor / psychotherapist. You may be exempted from some of the taught part of one of our UKCP accredited training courses. This may mean that the cost of your training is significantly reduced. However, there are some initial costs which cover the professional fees relating to evaluating and assessing your prior learning and to developing and formalizing a bespoke training programme. Unfortunately we are not able to offer RPL to count toward BACP accredited courses. If you think that your previous learning may qualify you for RPL then please contact us.

How to Apply

Applications for our courses can be made online via our website or by completing a paper application form. Introduction to Training days and interviews are held throughout the academic year. We allocate places to successful candidates as soon after interview as possible; courses do fill up throughout the year. Places are limited so early application is strongly recommended. If you are thinking of applying later in the year, please do get in touch by sending an email to courses@northernguild.org - we may still have space on your chosen course.

Additional Qualification Options

Trainees can also apply for an Additional Qualification Option in order to gain a professionally accredited Counselling qualification whilst continuing their Psychotherapy training.

Counselling and Psychotherapy with Children and Young People

Post Qualifying Diploma in Children & Young People Counselling / Psychotherapy (Conversion Course)

UKCP Accredited Course

Working therapeutically with Children and Young People is a respected and responsible role. Owing partly to the increased profile and perceived importance of this work, the profession now requires practitioners to obtain a specialist child qualification.

At Northern Guild you will experience training that meets the national requirements of the major professional bodies as our head of training has been taking a leading role in the development of the UK standards for over 20 years. As the first accredited UKCP/BACP child psychotherapy training in the North East we have a reputation for excellence in the field. This means that our graduates tend to do well in their careers.

The Post Qualifying Diploma in Children & Young People Counselling / Psychotherapy (PQ DIP) is a bespoke training programme designed for qualified counsellors and psychotherapists who want to extend their knowledge and skills to enable them to work with children and young people. This course meets BACP requirements for CPD and can lead to UKCP registration as a Child Psychotherapist/Child Psychotherapeutic Counsellor.

On successful completion of the PQ child psychotherapy training requirements you will be awarded the Northern Guild Post-Qualifying Diploma in Child Psychotherapy and be eligible to apply for UKCP Registration as a Child Psychotherapist.

On successful completion of the PQ child counselling training requirements you will be awarded the Northern Guild Post-Qualifying Diploma in Child Psychotherapeutic Counselling and be eligible to apply for UKCP Registration as a Child Psychotherapeutic Counsellor.

The course is also suitable for professionals working therapeutically with children and/or young people who want to enhance knowledge and skills but who do not want to go forward for accreditation. Successful candidates in this group will receive a Certificate in Therapeutic work with children and/or young people.

The Post Qualifying Diploma in Child Counselling / Psychotherapy aims to:

- Provide quality, in-depth training leading to professional registration as a Child Psychotherapist/Psychotherapeutic Counsellor
- Train candidates to a standard that equips them to work competently as a fully qualified Child Practitioner
- Facilitate personal and professional development
- Offer arts based creative methods training
- Provide community based learning in a friendly, supportive and comfortable environment
- Develop opportunities to specialise in a range of work areas

Counselling and Psychotherapy with Children and Young People

Individual Learning Plan

An Individual Learning Plan will be arranged with each participant based on their individual learning needs. Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is taken into account for each candidate applying for a place.

When drawing up the Individual Learning Plan with a senior tutor you will select from appropriate modules taken from our Child Training programme to obtain the necessary learning outcomes. This will ensure that you meet the UKCP / BACP learning outcomes for Child/Young Person Psychotherapists or Psychotherapeutic Counsellors. Depending on your experience and previous training it generally takes between one and two years to gain this Diploma. Some candidates prefer to take the MSc in Child Psychotherapy, which in itself is a 2-year child post qualifying training route.

Course Requirements

These can be summarised as follows:

- Attendance at specific modules chosen in conjunction with the Course Director (Timescales are arranged with each participant)
- Infant Observation Modules (Psychotherapy route only)
- A supervised training placement (this may be conducted in your own work setting if appropriate)
- On-going clinical supervision of at least two child clients at a supervision ratio of 1:4, with the possibility of reducing to 1:6
- Completion of specialist modules / workshops (required for UKCP registration) not already covered by previous training. These include Sand Tray, Imagery, Story & Metaphor and The Playful Child: Challenging the creative process in therapy.
- Prescribed reading and some written assignments. Written work will be kept to a minimum, in recognition of that already undertaken
- Enhanced DBS checks
- Final Written and Oral Assessments

Syllabus

Training and content will follow the Learning outcomes and Standards of Education and Training (Child SETS) developed by the UKCP and BACP for trainings in Child Psychotherapy and Child Counselling. The syllabus will be designed to bring together former studies and experience with the learning outcomes specifically for working with children and young people not already covered.

The emphasis will be on building knowledge, skills and experience in this field founded on an understanding of applied attachment theory, neuroscience, non-verbal communication and creative methods including sand tray, play therapy, imagery and metaphor.

Counselling and Psychotherapy with Children and Young People

Methods of Assessment

These are listed as follows:

- Continuous assessment by the supervisor including completion of a supervisor's assessment report
- Self and Peer assessment
- Presentation of a portfolio of work with children and young people demonstrating the use of creative methods
- Presentation of an oral case study
- Submission of a log of training demonstrating how the candidates meets the criteria for the award they are seeking
- Final Written and Oral Assessments

UKCP Registration

Graduates of the PQ Child Psychotherapeutic Counselling/Child Psychotherapy training will be eligible for registration with UKCP as a Child / Young Person Psychotherapeutic Counsellor or Child / Young Person Psychotherapist on successful submission of a portfolio demonstrating how they meet UKCP requirements.

Training Costs

There is an application fee of £275. This partly covers the processing of your application, a professional consultation / interview, an in-depth assessment of your prior learning and experience, the development of your bespoke learning route and the preparation of your Offer Letter. An additional enrolment fee of £375 is payable if you accept your place on the course.

Owing to the bespoke nature of each individuals' learning route, an indication of the complete cost of training is not available until after the offer letter is produced. Most of the elements of such a training plan will be taken from the standard training courses and the costs will generally be in line with those.

How to Apply

Please apply in writing for the attention of the Course Director, enclosing a short cover letter, the PQ DiP & RPL application form (available on our website or upon request) and an up to date copy of your CV. Please also state the reasons why you want to do this course.

We will then invite you for an interview, at which your requirements can be discussed in depth.

For further details of the application process please contact our reception staff on 0191 209 8383 or email courses@northernguild.org. You can also see us online at <http://www.northernguild.org>.

MSc Programme

Our Masters level programme is designed for those who are seeking to expand their knowledge and practice. We offer two main qualifications as follows:

- 1) MSc in Psychotherapy
- 2) Post-graduate Diploma in Psychotherapy (PG DIP)

Course participants will have previously undertaken some counselling or psychotherapy training and will view this course as an opportunity for advanced study.

These qualifications are validated and awarded by Newman University, UK. Their web address is <http://www.newman.ac.uk/>

The Post-graduate Diploma course (PG DIP) consists of a one-year taught course, with monthly weekend training sessions for ten months over the academic year. There are also a number of specialist workshops that are taken alongside the core modules.

Students wishing to progress to the MSc undertake a further year - the dissertation stage, which consists of six dissertation seminars per year of study, taken until the dissertation has been completed and submitted.

Clinical practice and supervision are undertaken at each stage of the course.

Aims of the course

1. To inspire students to engage at the cutting edge of developments in psychotherapeutic theory, practice and research.
2. To support students in their continuing professional development enabling them to take their place in the wider professional community.
3. To develop students' competence in engaging with complex theoretical and clinical debates across modalities and with professionals in related fields.
4. To ensure that students are aware of the strengths and limitations of psychotherapy as a discipline, are knowledgeable and co-operative in their interactions with other professionals and have the ability to refer clients as necessary.
5. To facilitate students' personal and professional development in such a way that they have the confidence to use themselves purposefully and effectively in the therapeutic process and relationship.
6. To provide the resources to support students in critically appraising research; to enable students to select and undertake a piece of research, and to encourage students to become involved in the wider psychotherapy research community.

Professional Development at Northern Guild

Vocational training is an important part of what we do, and we also believe that Continuing Professional Development is vital in maintaining and developing the competency, professionalism, creativity and confidence of the therapist once qualified, as well as for meeting their ongoing requirements for accreditation and registration.

At the Northern Guild we run several Professional Development Groups, as well as a wide variety of workshops and seminars on up to the minute subject matters, which are open to therapists and external participants alike. These offer the opportunity to keep up to date with developments in the profession, refresh your enthusiasm as well as developing and increasing contacts and support with like-minded colleagues. Workshop topics we have covered in the past include:

- Dreams and Dreaming
- Post traumatic Embitterment Disorder
- Using Imagery and Metaphor
- Sand Tray Therapy
- Trans-generational Transmission of Trauma
- Psychotherapy with Traumatised Children
- The Development of Professional Standards

We also specialise in therapeutic work with children and young people.

Several of our professionals hold leading posts within the main professional organisations and are involved in the development of standards. We therefore offer up to the minute information and guidance for therapists involved in our training and CPD programmes.

Our ongoing Professional Development Groups provide a supportive and confidential environment in which to meet your individual needs for personal and professional development, the structure and content is determined by the needs of the group. We have several groups running in three areas, Tyne and Wear, North Yorkshire and Teesside. There are separate groups for therapists working with adults and those working with children and young people.

Continuous Professional Development (CPD)

It is important to maintain regular CPD after you have qualified as a counsellor or psychotherapist. This helps you to keep your skills and knowledge up to date and contributes to client safety.

CPD seminars are held on a regular basis and offer a stimulating yet low cost alternative for CPD. These are usually facilitated by therapists on topics of interest and often include a social aspect with refreshments. Guest speakers are also invited to the Northern Guild throughout the academic year.

If you need in-house training, we can offer unique tailored programmes to suit the specific needs of your organisation, we would be very happy to hear from you. Equally if you want to see or take part in a workshop or discussion group on any of the areas above or a topic of your own, running at our Jesmond Training Centre, or are interested in joining a CPD group, please contact us on 0191 209 8383 or courses@northernguild.org.

Professional Development at Northern Guild

Professional Development Courses

Northern Guild training which is suitable for your Professional Development can also include many of our Workshops – please get in touch if you need to know the level of the training, would like to discuss specific training requirements or for any further information.

We also run a range of Post-Qualifying courses including:

- Conversion Course: Post Qualifying Diploma in Child Psychotherapy
- Conversion Course: Post Qualifying Diploma in Child Psychotherapeutic Counselling
- Certificate in Clinical Supervision Skills
- Diploma in Clinical Supervision Skills
- Certificate in Group work
- Diploma in Creative Therapeutic Methods

You may also be interested in our MSc Programme.

Certificate in Clinical Supervision Skills & Diploma in Clinical Supervision Skills (UKCP Accredited)

This UKCP Accredited Course is designed for those whose work involves the supervision of others within the helping professions, this course consists of a five-day stand-alone intensive training, which can be completed in conjunction with two additional 3-day workshops for Diploma Certification.

Increasingly, governing bodies are moving towards supervisors undertaking professional training in supervision and the introduction of a register of supervisors. The course will appeal to Psychologists, Counsellors, Psychotherapists, Social Workers, Nurses, the care and mental health sectors and teachers as well as others in the helping professions. It is suitable for novice supervisors as well as those with experience in the field who are looking to improve and extend their practice, consolidate their learning and gain a qualification in supervision.

Learning focuses on advancing knowledge, skills and reflexivity in individual supervisory practice; this is experienced through consideration of a range of theoretical perspectives alongside practical sessions. Key areas covered include:

- The Supervisory relationship
- Developmental stages in supervision
- Systemic models of supervision
- Interpersonal Process Recall (IPR)
- Transference and counter-transference in the supervisory relationship
- Values and ethics
- Developing supervision skills, practice and assessment
- Self & Peer Assessment

Professional Development at Northern Guild

The Certificate in Clinical Supervision Skills will be awarded on satisfactory completion of the five day July training course (scheduled every other academic year) and this must include a pass in the self & peer assessment of supervision skills.

Diploma in Clinical Supervision Skills

In order to meet the criteria for the Award of the Diploma in Clinical Supervision Skills, the following must all be satisfactorily met.

1. Full attendance of all training modules
2. A minimum of 40 hours practice as a supervisor, some of these hours can be accrued via supervised supervision at the Northern Guild if necessary
3. A log of your supervision experience
4. Attendance at six advanced training days at Northern Guild, scheduled every other academic year.
5. Ten hours supervised supervision by a Northern Guild recognised supervisor together with a satisfactory report from that supervisor
6. A satisfactory recording of a supervision session of 15 minutes duration
7. Satisfactory completion of a 2,000 word paper on supervision in which the philosophy, theory and methodology of supervision are demonstrated
8. A report from your supervisor indicating whether or not they endorse your suitability for the Award.

Criteria 2 – 8 must normally be met within 12 months of completing the Certificate course. Extension of submission may be negotiated. Those submitting under an extension will be required to meet any changes to costs for certification.

Skills and Competencies for working with Children & Young People

The professional bodies for Psychotherapy and Counselling recognise the need for specific competencies as essential for those who work with children and young people. UKCP has already brought in a requirement that all registered psychotherapists and psychotherapeutic counsellors working with children and young people are able to demonstrate that they have such competencies.

To meet the demand for training for those already practising with children and young people who have not been specifically trained or qualified to do so we have developed specific modules to enable therapists trained to work with adults to acquire these competencies. The individual can select the modules they require to top up their CV to bring it up to the new national standards. They will then be eligible for the Certificate/Diploma in Therapeutic Work with Children and Young People.

This training programme is already operating on an individual needs basis. Please contact us for further information, or to be notified when the full course information becomes available.

If you want to add to your qualifications so that you can register as a Child Psychotherapist with UKCP then you can apply for our Post Qualifying Diploma in Child Psychotherapy.

Professional Development at Northern Guild

Specialist Modules and Seminars

The list of our courses is regularly updated on our website. These are often run by our most experienced tutors, and occasionally, external trainers. A list of some of our more popular courses are as follows:

Introduction to Counselling

Developing counselling skills can be a deeply enriching experience. Listening, communication, body language and reflection are key elements throughout this programme, and learning is through a variety of stimulating, experiential exercises enhanced with rich discussions. This introduction offers an excellent learning experience, whether you wish to gain a sense of whether counselling is right for you as a career choice, or are simply looking to develop more effective ways of understanding and communicating with others.

Sand Tray Therapy (3 days)

Sand Tray therapy is a creative and powerful method for working with children and adults in counselling and psychotherapy - as well as for use in supervision. This thought provoking and practical workshop will provide you with a knowledge and experience of Sand Tray processes and modalities, and offers an insight into how Sand Tray symbolism can be used to access the subconscious mind.

Researching Counselling & Psychotherapy (3 days)

Whether research is new or is already familiar to you, there is a place for you here! This three day course will look at narrative, numbers and new methodologies; how poems, process and positivism produce pluralism; Carl Roger's core conditions and common therapeutic factors as outcomes; ethics, controversies and the client's voice. This is a three-day course, but it is possible to attend over two days, depending on your requirements.

Story & Metaphor: (3 days).

Using metaphor in therapy can harness creative and imaginative energy and lead to integration and resolution of even deeply seated difficulties. This introduction offers an opportunity to develop an understanding of the theory of different metaphor techniques, an opportunity to experiment with metaphor and an exploration of the power of metaphor to communicate at a deeper level including how to work with the client's own metaphors.

Imagery (3 days).

Images convey powerful messages, spoken and unspoken. When we capture the image, we release mental and emotional energy, which can be channelled in a positive way. This course offers an opportunity to learn about the work of Jung, Hillman, Leuner, and Milton Erickson as a base for developing your therapeutic skills in working with imagery.

In-depth Workshop: The Inner Child (5 days)

Learn how to listen and to respond to the child within us that remains wounded. Throughout this rich, in-depth and experiential workshop you will have the opportunity through theoretical discussions and experiential reflection to return to seek what your inner child missed. You will learn to understand the frozen child, identify distress or trauma in childhood that emerges throughout life, and how to listen and respond to the Inner Child, enabling you to understand yourself - as a child and as an adult - and consequently growing to be a more attuned parent and adult.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: I don't have any previous counselling experience: do I need to do an introductory course before I apply for a counselling Diploma course?

A: No. Our Foundation year assumes no previous knowledge or experience. Throughout the application process we look at each candidate individually; your personality and natural aptitude may be far better indicators of your suitability for a course than previous study or experience.

Q: What's the difference between Counselling and Psychotherapy?

A: There are many similarities between these two psychological 'talking' therapies, and there's no hard and fast answer. Counselling is usually offered for current life situations that are causing difficulty, such as bereavement or other recent traumatic events, work-related stress and problems within a relationship. The aims of the counselling in this case would be to help the client deal with the situation and enable them to restore their normal state of functioning.

Psychotherapy involves working at a greater depth and intensity, usually over a longer period of time. Therapy in this context may look at the underlying emotional issues that affect the client's relationship with the world, with the aim of enabling them to understand the background to their difficulties, make personal changes and exercise different choices that lead to a deeper feeling of well-being.

Q: What model of psychotherapy do you teach?

A: At the Northern Guild, we utilise the psychodynamic and relational approach to psychotherapy and counselling. Our model is Humanistic & Integrative, drawing on frameworks such as Transactional Analysis, Psychodynamics and Attachment Theory, together with a client-centered approach integrated into a relational model. The training encompasses emotional, cognitive, psychosomatic and other approaches that address mind, body, emotions and spirit. Students also gain a good grounding in Counselling and Psychotherapy research skills. Throughout all the courses there is an emphasis on the use of imagery, metaphor and the creative therapeutic methods. The latter is at its strongest in the Child training.

Q: Who is my course accredited with?

A: Most of our counselling courses are accredited by BACP, UKCP or both and our psychotherapy courses are accredited by UKCP. The Newman University validates the Post Graduate Diploma and MSc in Psychotherapy.

Q: Can I continue working full time whilst I study?

A: Our courses are all designed for students who work full time. The majority of our students currently balance the demands of the course with working. By the final year of the Diploma in Psychotherapy, you may find your focus changing as your client work increases. At this point, as the student's role starts to shift towards becoming a professional Counsellor or Psychotherapist, many students opt to move to work part time, often within their existing job.

Training with us

Q: I'm not sure if I will want to work with children or adults, which course should I take?

A: We support students to the point where they feel they are confident to make a well-informed decision about whether to take the Child or Adult route to qualification. You are welcome to speak to both our Child and Adults course tutors to discuss your requirements and to clarify the different options and courses. It is possible to take a conversion course to add a child or adult qualification to the initial one. For the full requirements of this conversion pathway, please get in touch with us.

In practical terms, both our Adult and Child students have found successful placements and careers within the voluntary, NHS, education and other statutory settings.

Q: Will I get work at the end of the course? What kinds of jobs are out there?

A: A vocational course is an investment in your career and your future, so it's wise to think ahead and look at where and how you want to end up working. Take a look at our Careers section below to see ideas of the diverse career routes available and where to look to research the job market.

Q: Can I get help with the course fees?

A: The Northern Guild is an independent training organisation, and we keep the costs as low as we can. We do not charge interest to those who wish to pay in regular installments. We accept payments from a student's employer, from a member of a student's family or from other individuals or organisations who are providing funding.

Q: I live some distance away and need to know what the additional attendance requirements are outside of the training weekends to plan my time and travel commitments.

A: This depends on the route you are taking and can vary from course to course. Please contact us for further information as we do offer some flexibility here. We have several international students and many who travel to us from around the UK and Ireland.

Q: I'm on a counselling course elsewhere and want to transfer to the Northern Guild. Do I need to start training in year 1 again?

A: If your current course meets the Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) criteria, or you have other suitable learning, you may be able to get parts of the training accredited through RPL. Although Northern Guild does not award RPL toward a BACP accredited qualification, it does accept applications for our UKCP accredited training routes. Please note that UKCP restrict the amount of RPL that can be offered.

Q: What is the difference between BACP and UKCP?

A: The United Kingdom Council for Psychotherapy (UKCP) and the British Association for Counselling and Psychotherapy (BACP) are professional bodies holding registers of counsellors and psychotherapists. Historically the UKCP has been the professional body for psychotherapists and the BACP the professional body for counselling. However, both organisations now offer professional support and accreditation to both disciplines. Each organisation is structured somewhat differently and both provide a range of services to members including an official register of practitioners. Most of our counselling courses are accredited by both BACP and UKCP and our psychotherapy courses are accredited by UKCP. Further information about each organisation can be found on their websites.

Training with us

Q: Who should I register with (BACP or UKCP)?

A: This depends on your choice of course and is also a matter of personal preference, however you will have opportunities to discuss this in more depth as you progress through your training, which will then enable you to be able to make an informed decision.

Q: Which of the two (UKCP or BACP) are more widely acknowledged in the NHS and outside of private practice?

A: Historically BACP is most widely recognised as a professional body for counselling and UKCP as professional body for psychotherapy. This is changing as statutory and voluntary organisations become more aware of the convergences between the two bodies.

Q: What levels of training do your courses correspond to?

A: The Diploma in Psychotherapeutic Counselling is at Level 5/6 whereas the Diploma in Psychotherapy is at Level 7.

Q: When do your courses start and when should I apply?

A: Our courses currently start at the beginning of the academic year, in September or October. You can apply at any time but we strongly recommend that you apply earlier enough to secure your place on the course. We usually begin conducting interviews in January.

Q: Can I complete the counselling / clinical practice element of the course in my local area?

A: Yes you can if it is available in your area, although all such practice must be completed within the United Kingdom (UK). This is in order to ensure compliance with the terms of our insurance arrangements.

Q: Will any of the training be taught online?

A: Yes it is highly likely that some of the course will be taught online. The Pandemic and the ongoing march of technological process have meant that such online training has already taken place at Northern Guild. The rules and regulations around online training are continuing to evolve and it is anticipated that clear guidelines will emerge in the near future. The current expectation is that a specific proportion of training will be completed online.

Q: How much of the course do I need to attend?

A: The course is divided into several broad areas of training as follows: Core Training Evenings or Weekends, Specialist Modules / Workshops, your placements (practice), supervision of practice, training therapy and some other miscellaneous elements which are particular to your chosen course. From 1st September 2022, the minimum attendance requirement for core training is 80% and for everything else it is 100%. Opportunities to catch up on missed sessions are available in later years. It is recommended that you attend 100% of the whole course because we believe that this gives you the best opportunity to succeed in your Final Assessments.

Training with us

Q: Can I study with Northern Guild if I live abroad?

A: Yes if you have residency status here in the UK. However, Northern Guild is not able to become a licensed Government sponsor for tier 4 student visas, so, overseas students will be required to establish the right to live and study in the UK through another means, (such as the skilled worker visa). You will also need to be able to speak, read, write and understand English. All counselling or clinical practice must be completed in the UK.

Accreditation

Our professional Diploma courses can lead to registration with the principal UK governing bodies. The Diploma in Psychotherapeutic Counselling course is accredited by BACP (British Association for Counselling & Psychotherapy) and UKCP (United Kingdom Council for Psychotherapy). The same applies to the Diploma in Psychotherapeutic Counselling with Children & Young People course, the first BACP accredited child specialist course in the North East. Our Psychotherapy and our Psychotherapeutic Counselling Diplomas, both Adult & Child specialisms, are accredited by UKCP. These professional bodies ensure our training programmes meet the highest standards of training, are regularly monitored and updated, and are submitted for re-accreditation on a five-yearly basis. You can find out more about these organisations and their training standards by visiting their websites.

Professional Registration

As a leading UK training organisation, our courses are designed to ensure that many graduates become eligible to be listed on the main professional registers of BACP and/or UKCP. Both registers are part of the Accredited Voluntary Registers (AVR) scheme set up by the Department of Health and administered by the independent Professional Standards Authority (PSA – see www.professionalstandards.org.uk), accountable to Government. You can be assured that by choosing an accredited course you demonstrate to employers and private clients that your training meets a high standard which is nationally recognised, and that you adhere to organisational codes of ethics and professional conduct, and have demonstrated a capacity for 'independent, competent, ethical practice.

On successful completion of the full training and on meeting all requirements such as clinical practice, supervision and personal therapy, students are then able to apply to the appropriate body to be entered onto their register of professionals. The Northern Guild is a professional training body and an Organisational Member of both BACP and UKCP. Throughout their training, psychotherapy students must maintain membership of Northern Guild and conduct themselves within the professional guidelines laid out in the Codes of Ethics and Codes of Practice.

Training with us

All counselling trainees must become student members of BACP within the first two months of starting their course so that ethical compliance is with BACP.

The Northern Guild holds organisational membership of the following professional bodies:

- United Kingdom Council for Psychotherapy
- British Association for Counselling & Psychotherapy
- Humanistic & Integrative Psychotherapy College of UKCP
- Psychotherapeutic Counselling & Intersubjective Psychotherapy College of UKCP
- College for Children & Young People UKCP
- European Association of Counselling

Careers

Training as a Counsellor or Psychotherapist can be a very enriching experience. It is also a significant undertaking, and it makes sense to research the types of options that may be available to you after successful completion of your training.

Advice and background information on Counselling and Psychotherapy are available in several places online, as well as more detailed advice on careers and job searches. Graduate careers website “Prospects” gives an overview of both Psychotherapy and Counselling careers, as does the Government careers website and the NHS Careers pages – these resources are particularly helpful for those unfamiliar with the profession.

The United Kingdom Council for Psychotherapy (UKCP) and the British Association of Counselling & Psychotherapy (BACP) both have more detailed information about training, and BACP has an excellent student area on their website.

In terms of employment opportunities, students can find work in the independent, statutory and voluntary sectors, and many Counsellors and Psychotherapists take a ‘portfolio approach’ to their work, combining several different areas. Take a look at the Careers Profile to see how one of our graduates uses this approach.

The three sectors are outlined below - for an idea of what the current opportunities are in each area; take a look through some of the job pages of the websites and journals listed beneath them:

Statutory Sector

This sector includes the NHS, a major employer for Psychotherapy and Counselling related work, which may be in community-based clinics, in-patient areas of hospitals or GP surgeries as well as in a variety of other settings, often as part of a multi-disciplinary team. During your training you will build strong links with GP surgeries as your main placement provider, this will give you a sound overview of job opportunities within the NHS. Other areas within this sector include police and prison services, student health services, social services departments and on the IAPT programme (Improving Access to Psychological Therapies).

Training with us

Voluntary Sector

It is likely that you will have built up links within the voluntary sector during your training, as many students take a placement with one of the charities and NGO's within the region at some point. These include organisations such as Mind, Barnardo's, Hospices and WHAC (Women's Health Advice Centre). As well as the individual organisation's websites, jobs may also be advertised in The Guardian and on the BACP online jobs database (available only to members/student members).

Independent Sector

This sector includes, but is by no means limited to, private practice, which students may have already started building up before the completion of their studies and full registration as a Counsellor or Psychotherapist. As a therapist in private practice they may receive referrals from GP's, BUPA, Employee Assistance Programmes and solicitors as well as self-referrals. Other avenues of paid work include freelance work for private health organisations, insurance companies and the courts and legal system.

Career Profile

Sarah P is a fully qualified professional and accredited psychotherapist. Before deciding to become a counsellor and psychotherapist she was working as a Marketing Manager in a local business.

"Becoming a psychotherapist was the best decision I could have made. The training with Northern Guild has been deeply enriching on a personal level, and the courses and support of the Northern Guild team of tutors, supervisors and therapists helped me to identify and develop so many skills that had up until that point, largely remained hidden. Consequently, this has opened up a wealth of diverse and fulfilling career opportunities."

Her pathway to becoming a UKCP Registered Integrative Psychotherapist at the Northern Guild was as follows:

- 1) Diploma in Psychotherapeutic Counselling
- 2) Internship at Northern Guild
- 3) Postgraduate Diploma in Psychotherapy
- 4) MSc in Integrative Psychotherapy
- 5) Certificate in Group Work

Sarah now works as a Freelance Psychotherapist, as a Psychotherapist for a National Charity, as a teacher and as a supervisor.

Funding

The main source of funding is our interest free payment programme. This allows trainees to spread their fees over a period of time without any interest being paid.

We also accept payments from the employers, families and friends of those wishing to study at Northern Guild.

Northern Guild is also associated with UKCP which runs a Trainee Bursary Scheme from time to time.

Some small grants may also be available from The Educational Grants Advisory Service (part of Family Action). The British Association for Counselling and Psychotherapy (BACP) offer a limited number of Hoxter Educational Bursaries of up to £500 each year however, only students on our BACP accredited courses are eligible to apply.

About us

Statement of Equality and Diversity

The Northern Guild for Psychotherapy and Counselling respects the dignity and individuality of all our stakeholders, these include:

- Service users
- Teaching professionals
- Clinical team
- Administrative and clerical teams
- Cleaning team
- Partner agencies
- Employed professionals and self-employed workers
- Applicants
- Visitors

At the heart of our ethos, is our respect for the integrity of the individual. Mindful of the psychological impact of social exclusion, and to ensure that practically we 'do what we say', The Northern Guild seeks to be aware of and address the needs of all employed and self-employed workers, service users, applicants, partners and visitors, and show due regard to those with protected characteristics including race, sexual orientation, religion or belief, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, age, disability, gender reassignment, and gender. We aim to promote an inclusive community, which enables access for all to personal development and growth. In accordance with the Equality Act 2010 we do not tolerate direct discrimination on the grounds of one or more protected characteristics, or discrimination by association or perception. We also take measures to identify and eliminate instances of indirect discrimination from our policies, procedures and practices.

We will actively prevent victimisation of any individual who chooses to exert their legal rights in line with the Equality Act 2010.

This statement is actively supported through our admissions policy, qualifications procedures, operational policy, committee infrastructure, training materials, handbook, client evaluation and community meetings for students where we positively encourage feedback and implement recommendations in the spirit of continuous improvement.

Following developments in equality legislation nationally, we are guided by models of best practice and through our accrediting organisations, UKCP and BACP.

About us

Our Training

Students initially learn to use the Psychodynamic and relational model of Transactional Analysis alongside other core Humanistic theoretical approaches to their work. They will gradually assimilate knowledge, skills and techniques that will facilitate their development as counsellors or psychotherapists. These include aspects of child and adult development, neuroscience, attachment theory, and ethics, normal and psychopathological states of health.

Progress is assessed by a variety of means, and you will learn to present your developing ideas and skills in written format, group situations and through case presentations of your clinical practice. All assessments involve application to actual practice and are therefore alive and stimulating rather than dry pieces of work.

Our Training Professionals

Jennie McNamara and Christine Lister-Ford are the original company founders; both are UKCP Honorary Fellows and registered Psychotherapists. Christine is author of the acclaimed 'Skills in Transactional Analysis Counselling & Psychotherapy', is former vice chair of the UKCP, and for over twenty years has sat on numerous national and international committees, leading developments within the profession.

Jennie was actively involved with the UKCP College for Children & Young People (CCYP) and is a former Chair. Her other previous roles included being President of the European Association for Counselling (EAC), Chair of the UKCP Faculty for the Psychological Health of Children and being a member of the UKCP Board of Trustees.

Both Jennie and Christine are also Independent Consultant Psychotherapists, and act as independent experts to the Child & Family Courts as well as continuing to maintain their respective clinical practices for over thirty-five years.

Emily Suggett, Director of Child Services, has extensive experience of working with children and young people. A UKCP registered Psychotherapist, she works closely with the College for Children & Young People (CCYP) Training Standards Committee of UKCP. Emily is continuing to expand her role within Northern Guild and is acquiring many new skills as she does so.

Sarah Hamlyn is a specialist in Standards, Professional Registration and Accreditation. She is involved in the development of training standards at a national level. Sarah is Chair of the UKCP Psychotherapeutic Counselling Training Standards Committee. Alongside Christine and Jennie she developed the Northern Guild's MSc programme and maintains links with Newman University, the Humanistic and Integrative College of UKCP and BACP to both influence and respond to professional and academic requirements relating to training and registration.

About us

The considerable experience of these professionals is brought to life in the training sessions. They teach alongside an excellent and diverse team of qualified, specialist and knowledgeable tutors – many being UKCP Registered Psychotherapists.

The training team includes the Guild's supervisors, who are qualified Psychotherapists, and who will each contribute a great deal to your clinical experience over the course of your training.

Training, Therapy & Supervision Centres

Training normally takes place at our Newcastle and Teesside Centres. Each building is Victorian in design and they were built in the 1860s. They are bright with high ceilings and original features and stylish training rooms. During training sessions students will also use a number of our smaller consulting rooms as 'breakout' areas for activities such as group work and skills practice sessions.

We have established therapy and supervision practices at both our Newcastle and Teesside sites. They provide a warm, professional and calm atmosphere.

Students from Durham, Teesside, Yorkshire and beyond can arrange their personal therapy and supervision at our Northern Guild Centre on Teesside.

For those living further afield, training therapy and a proportion of your supervision is available by Zoom (online). Other training may also be delivered online – this is a developing area so we expect to make further changes in the coming months and years.

Library Facilities

We have both an onsite library and an online library where students can access our specialist collection of texts. We provide information on a variety of other available resources.
